2006 Hot Products: The 33 most innovative new products from EMS Today

By FRAN HILDWINE, BS, NREMT-P, CCEMT-P

Every year, JEMS showcases recently released products designed to help EMS providers do their jobs more efficiently and safely. This March, the JEMS product review team spent two days combing the exhibit hall at the 24th annual EMS Today Conference & Exposition in Baltimore. The team of seasoned field providers, educators and EMS procurement specialists met with 227 exhibitors, reviewing products recently introduced to our industry and asking about product design, rationale, function and practical application for prehospital medicine. These are the team's picks for the hottest new products unveiled within the previous six months.

Light Up That Vein

PIN-LITE by Embo-Optics LLC is a 2" chemical light stick clipped to the IV catheter that provides vein illumination via a cold light. It's ideal for situations that require light discipline and a reduced heat signature. Look for a more in-depth field trial of the PIN-LITE in an upcoming issue of JEMS.

For more information, visit www.embo-optics.com or call 877/885-6400.

Fran Hildwine, BS, NREMT-P, CCEMT-P, is a paramedic lieutenant with Crozer Chester Medical Center in Delaware County, Pa. He's an adjunct faculty member at Delaware County Community College with more than 18 years' EMS experience. Fran is currently pursuing his MBA at Widener University.
